Native American Art and Crafts Winter Sale

Saturday, December 3rd, 2016 at 9:00 a.m. — 4:00 p.m.

Catawba pottery, jewelry, baskets, and other works handmade by Native American artists and craftspeople will be available Saturday, December 3rd at the USC Lancaster Native American Studies Center from 9:00 am to 4:00 pm. Vendors will be at the Center for the event offering a wide variety of artwork, crafts, decorative items, and unique handmade objects perfect for holiday gift-giving. We will have flute and drum music performed by Keepers of the Word at 11:00 am and 1:00 pm and artist-in-residence Keith Brown will have demonstrations of Catawba pottery within the gallery throughout the day. Visitors will also have the opportunity to tour the exhibits in the Native American Studies Center and hear storytelling by Beckee Garris.
